

A window display for Mediterranean products. The scene is set in a room with large windows overlooking a body of water and distant hills. The windows are framed by light-colored, scalloped curtains. In the foreground, several tables are covered with green cloths. On the left, a table holds a vase of purple flowers, a brown leather bag, and a small statue of a figure. In the center, a table with a white lace tablecloth displays various items, including a framed picture of a woman's face and a small black bust. To the right, another table is covered with jewelry and small trinkets. A large, light-colored bust of a woman's head is visible in the bottom right corner. The text "Two Days Mediterranean Products" is overlaid in a light blue, semi-transparent font across the center of the image.
